UNBOUND showcases the graduating class from the fashion design program at Fanshawe College.

We are pleased to present to you Unbound 2015!

Unbound describes the creative spirit and achievements of our twenty four emerging Canadian fashion designers. Unbound 2015 is a professional collaboration between Fanshawe College, community and professionals in the fashion industry. As you turn the pages, admire their accomplishments – the results of three years of passion, hard work, and dedication.

This year's fashion design students have been very fortunate to have had David Dixon as their student design mentor. David Dixon is a renowned Canadian fashion designer whose designs can be found in select boutiques both nationally and internationally. His innovative designs have won him a following among the elite communities of film and fashion. David has coached each student from the conception of their collection through to the final collections.

The Fashion Design three year advanced diploma program was founded over 40 years ago. The program is dedicated to educating and nurturing aspiring Canadian fashion designers. It's evolved into a highly respected program in the industry that has graduated many successful students.

With complete confidence in the talent and the skills of our emerging fashion designers, we launch our class of 2015, into the fashion industry. We encourage each of our graduates to continue to push themselves beyond what is expected, and to challenge themselves in new and innovative directions that will ultimately lead to their success.

We celebrate the creative endeavours of the next generation of Canadian fashion talent from the Fashion Design program at Fanshawe College in London, Ontario! A very special thank-you to Sayer-White & Associates, our title sponsor, Fanshawe College Alumni Association, industry sponsors, Fanshawe College and the fashion design faculty team.

The Fashion Design Faculty Team

"Be reckless enough to gamble all or nothing to follow your dreams"
- John Galliano

Fashion Design at Fanshawe College is a three-year Ontario College Advanced Diploma co-op program. Fanshawe College is a student-focused organization dedicated to supporting and nurturing aspiring Canadian fashion designers. Supported by a faculty team with a passion for the fashion industry, students develop their creative design skills, apparel production technologies, visual communications, and business marketing skills in order to prepare for a future in the various sectors of the rapidly changing global fashion industry. Graduates work as designers, pattern makers, product developers, fit technicians, quality control technicians, wardrobe technologists or CAD technologists in such companies as Line Knitwear, Burda Style, Danier Leather, Roots, Reebok Canada and Joe Fresh.
